THE BIGGEST CHANGE TO HEAVY VEHICLE ACCREDITATION IN DECADES

From 1 August 2026, Australia's National Heavy Vehicle Accreditation Scheme (NHVAS) begins transitioning to the new Heavy Vehicle Accreditation (HVA) framework.

The new accreditation model introduces a significantly different approach to managing heavy vehicle safety and compliance.

While existing NHVAS accreditations remain valid during the transition period, businesses will eventually need to meet the requirements of the new HVA framework.

WHAT'S CHANGING?

Current NHVAS	New HVA
 Separate module audits	 Whole-of-business audit
 Mass, Maintenance & Fatigue assessed independently	 Integrated Safety Management System
 Module-based accreditation	 General Safety Accreditation (GSA)
 Compliance-focused	 Risk-based safety management
 CML accreditation	 General Mass Limits increase — CML phased out

ARE YOU READY?

Moving to HVA isn't simply changing accreditation.

It requires demonstrating that your business operates an effective Safety Management System across your entire transport operation.

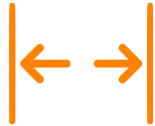

AuditCo can help you prepare by identifying:

- ✓ Your transition pathway
- ✓ Current compliance gaps
- ✓ SMS documentation requirements
- ✓ Internal processes
- ✓ Risk management
- ✓ Corrective actions
- ✓ Audit readiness

Whether you're maintaining your current NHVAS accreditation or preparing for HVA, we'll guide you through each stage.
